welcome to term 1, 2019

For many of us, our experiences with education are often blanketed by performance criteria aligned with passing tests and receiving assignment marks; activities that will never accurately reflect what you have learned. However, our earliest philosophers considered education to be the pivot point of knowledge creation, generating abilities such as critical thinking. Learning considered in this context delivers us joy, and we gain knowledge we can share with others and use to be creative or innovative.

These are the ingredients which foster a love of learning and enhance our society.

At WRCC our mission is to improve our community through education. In this sense, we focus on activities centred in learning and knowledge creation in a non-competitive environment.

I welcome you to our 2019 offerings. Should you not see your interests addressed here please call the college. We are here to help.
